

the mission

Teaching is the most important, rewarding, and difficult job on the planet.

I have been a teacher for 22 years. My goal is to empower teachers to get out, roll their sleeves up, and make a huge difference each day.

Why listen to me?

I have been teaching for 22 years. I have taught every grade level in the public school sector. I've been a coach, a substitute, and aide. I've driven a bus, taken out the trash, and waxed my own gym floor. I've been in tested subjects, untested subjects, and electives. I know my way around the school system.

I have had much adversity in my life. My story is a complicated and painful one, with cancer right here at the end of it.

The point is, we can all be better. Do more. Mean more. Make a difference. No matter what is going on in our lives. Let's get out there, roll up our sleeves, and see what we can do!

"I Dare You TO TEACH ME"

Not the most attentive student- not much patience for teachers- gifted and bored. I'll go into what it was like for me in school and how that has helped me on the other side of the desk.

"WHEN SCHOOL is the Only Safe Place"

Sometimes school is the only place some kids feel safe. It's the only place where there are rules and structure. As teachers, one of our priorities should be creating those safe places for our kids. A place they can take a breath, relax, and not be fearful.

"Classroom MANAGEMENT"

If there is chaos in your room, optimal learning cannot take place. Learn some tips and tools for your classroom that can help you take some control back without being a tyrant.

"Overcoming ADVERSITY"

We all go through hard times. Teachers do. Kids do. No one is immune to the difficulties of life. Let's talk about some ways to get through your own adversity, and potentially help your kids get through theirs.
